ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

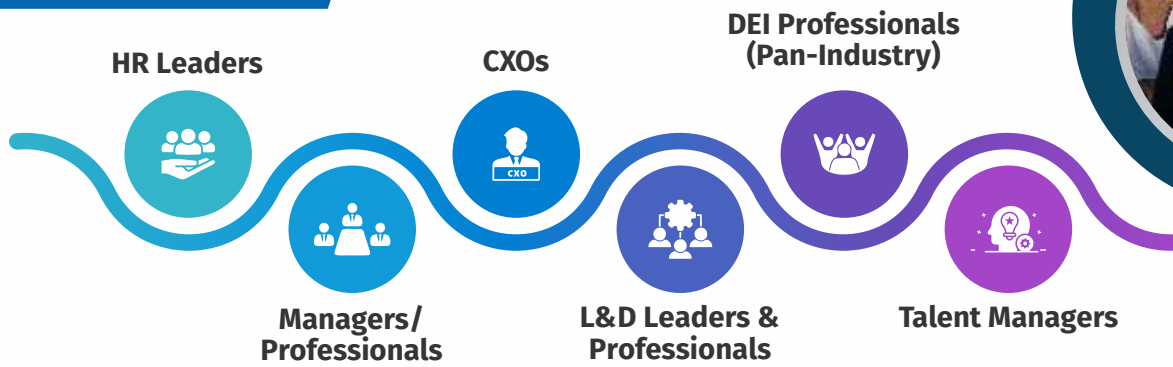

In today's fast-paced business environment, Learning and Development (L&D) has evolved from traditional training methods to become a strategic driver of organizational success. The FICCI L&D Summit 2025 brings together thought leaders, industry experts, and key business leaders to explore the latest trends and innovations in L&D that are shaping the workforce of tomorrow.

As organizations face the challenges of rapidly advancing technologies, shifting skill requirements, and rising workforce expectations, L&D is more critical than ever to staying competitive and fostering growth. The summit will provide actionable insights into how businesses can leverage personalized learning paths, advanced technologies like AI, VR, and gamification, and cutting-edge strategies to close skill gaps, enhance employee engagement, and boost organizational resilience.

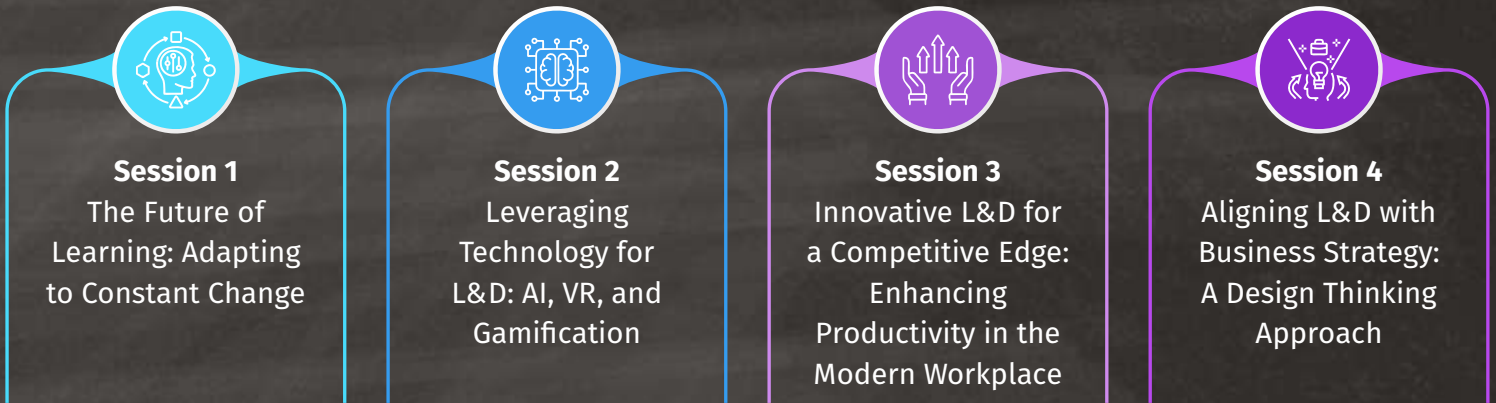

With 77% of L&D professionals reporting that personalized learning enhances employee engagement and retention, this summit will highlight how organizations can implement tailored learning initiatives to meet the evolving needs of their teams. Additionally, we will explore the importance of continuous learning, as 94% of employees indicate they would stay longer at companies investing in learning during work hours.
